

Thursday prep- Mathematics

Learning Objective: To enhance critical thinking skills

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Low FloorOn a farm there are:Chickens (2 legs)Sheep (4 legs)Altogether there are 14 legs.How many chickens and sheep could there be? Can you find all possible answers?                                                                           | Low FloorFour friends sit in a row:Ben refuses to sit next to Ava.Leo must sit at the end.Ava wants to sit next to Mia.Is it possible? If yes, show how. If not, explain why. |
| High CeilingFind one number that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• is divisible by 3 and 4</li> <li>• is divisible by 5 but NOT 10</li> <li>• leaves a remainder of 1 when divided by 4</li> </ul> Is it possible? If yes, show how. If not, explain why. | High CeilingA number multiplied by 7 gives an answer between 200 and 250.What could the number be?How many possible answers are there?                                            |

PSG/Mathematics/ February 2026/SR

Thursday prep- Mathematics

Learning Objective: To enhance critical thinking skills

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Low FloorOn a farm there are:Chickens (2 legs)Sheep (4 legs)Altogether there are 14 legs.How many chickens and sheep could there be? Can you find all possible answers?                                                                           | Low FloorFour friends sit in a row:Ben refuses to sit next to Ava.Leo must sit at the end.Ava wants to sit next to Mia.Is it possible? If yes, show how. If not, explain why. |
| High CeilingFind one number that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• is divisible by 3 and 4</li> <li>• is divisible by 5 but NOT 10</li> <li>• leaves a remainder of 1 when divided by 4</li> </ul> Is it possible? If yes, show how. If not, explain why. | High CeilingA number multiplied by 7 gives an answer between 200 and 250.What could the number be?How many possible answers are there?                                            |

PSG/Mathematics/ January 2026/SR